

Principal's Note

This year is flying by quickly. I'm excited about the learning and growth that is happening at Cokeville Elementary School. We are excited to meet with you at parent teacher conferences next week. We appreciate partnering with you related to your child's education and the opportunities we provide. Please feel free to ask questions you have as parent teacher conferences can be a great time to discuss strengths and areas to continue to work.

As we have done in recent years, your child will be participating in a reading challenge in the third quarter. Students have voted and selected the AR party for the end of the third quarter, which will be silly stringing a group of adults. Please encourage your child to read to reach their goal, but also to exceed their goal as there will be extra opportunities for your child to participate and earn extra cans if he/she exceeds the set goal. Thank you for the work you do to encourage your child to grow in his/her literacy through promoting literacy at home.

Cokeville Elementary was proud to nearly sweep the district spelling bee. We had all the top 5th grade spellers and half of the top six spellers in sixth and fourth grade in the district. We know achievement at this level doesn't occur without hard work both at home and at school. Thank you for your work helping your child to master his/her spelling words. We are excited for your students to once again perform at such a high level!!

We continue to focus on CLASSY at Cokeville Schools. In February we will be working on self-motivation. Thank for encouraging your students to learn more about self-motivation and how this trait can help students achieve their goals and aspirations. Connecting things you see in media or other areas can help students learn more about self-motivation and the positive impact it can have on your child.

We again look forward to seeing you next week for parent teacher conference to visit about your child's learning and growth.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Dietz
Cokeville K-12 Principal
